Everything I am. I owe to my Uncle Charlie. He made me strong enough to carry my family 700 thousand miles across the country. I feel like I'm writing this to give it to him later. When he pulls up in his big rig... Everything in perfect order. My inability to control my own anger and confusion led to a diversion in paths, it's ultimately my fault. Even though time was cut short and our common careers changed, the strength he gave me never left. I can literally go anywhere, any point in time, because of this Man, because of this Man I'm once again at a life changing point beyond my own expectations... Because of this Man. For a part of my life was a stand in for my father. I know when my day comes I can accept moving on to the next journey, the world's alot quieter now. Im sorry Uncle Charlie.. see you again someday

I've known Charlie and Gabi for quite a few years at all the barns where they've worked and lived. Charlie was always friendly and kind when he was home and not on the road. He was especially sympathetic to me when my son died two years ago and I will remember that always. I will miss seeing him around. Gabi will always be my friend and I'll continue to visit in the future. Many thanks to Doreen for being there for Gabi through Charlie's illness.

Chip was my brother, friend, and who I strove to make proud. When I was a young mother He was there for my sons and I when there was no one, always made sure my boys had Christmas presents when I could not provide. He always kept the brothers and sisters always together, 7 of us was very difficult at times. He took care of his our mother, always making sure she had what she needed. his strength permeated through everything he did and anyone he touched. "Do your Homework" and "always chase the White Wolf". His love for his wife and family had no bounds, and was always there, putting others and their needs before himself. He taught me that, I will continue carrying his torch the best I can. I will miss our long hours of chats and our Truck Stop breakfasts and his steaks at Aunt Bees. My heart breaks I miss him so much but I know it will be ok because we will all be together again at Our Fathers House in Heaven. Charlie I am looking forward to being with you again, in love, Peace with God, Peace with Nature, Peace with self, Love one another, your sister Jelaine Cin

“ Last time I saw my uncle Chip was in June when we camped together. We had good time together. He seemed too have everything anyone needs while camping hiding in the back of his truck and would pull things out to give to people as they needed them. Even made me campfire coffee in the morning. I'll always remember Chip for selflessness and the way he made sure to take care of his family. Rest in peace uncle Chip.

“ It was our last Thanksgiving with our mom and my brother Charlie decided to bring his new deep fryer to my sister's house and made mom and his brother and sisters each their own turkey...it was fun, a lot of music, laughter, children, playing pool and video games, just good old fashion family get-together. This year a lot of us got together one more time and celebrated his last Thanksgiving meal. We will forever be thankful for him...a strong man, an over-comer, a giver, a lover of travel, and a good provider of the family. I miss you Charlie. I'm grateful to God for a wonderful big brother. Rest in Peace. Love, Teddi Mae
