“ I worked for Mr. Sims in 1989. He was the manager of the dime store downtown (can't remember the name). I was a high school student. He was the kindest man I had a lot of fun working there. I remember him talking about a trip to Egypt that he took with his family, and what a good time everyone had. I think you have won the trip through his job.
Praying for the family, as a celebrate his life, and what he meant to them.

“ We first met Mr. & Mrs. Sims back in 2008, as the years passed, we would talk about politics, home prices, you name it we covered it. One day we got to talking about apples and fried apple pies and how we both just loved them with a scoop of vanilla ice cream melting over the top. A couple of days later Mr. Sims brings us a batch of hot made from scratch fried apple pies he had Mrs. Sims make for us and to this day they still hold the record as being the very best we have ever had. Mr. Sims will be greatly missed

“ My favorite memories of Melvin are from childhood when both our families attended Oconee Baptist Church. He used to give me pencils from his “stash”. He knew my favorite was Snoopy, so he always made sure that’s what I got! I also cherish the memories of him going skating with our youth group. He and my Daddy couldn’t skate, but holding onto the wall bars, they did their best! What a generous, thoughtful, and genuinely kind man he was. ❤️
