“ Sue was my Aunt in America, Mama,'s sister from America. Everyone in Scotland, My Gran, my Aunts and Uncles referred to the Ginns as our family in America. The 1ST. time I saw Sue and Jamie was the summer when I was 5yrs old. Jimmy (my brother) ran in the house so excited...going come with me Cindy I have a surprise for you. I always pestered Jimmy and his friends. There weren't any girls to play with on Harmony st. He had found my first friend for me. He was excited as much as me. We ran behind the 2 houses between and then hid in the bushes watching Sue and Sam moving in and Jamie playing around in the yard. We were both scared to go in the yard and say anything but Sue saw us and invited us to come in the yard and play. That started a life long friendship. At Easter I can remember Mama buying the material and Sue making Jamie and my dresses. We always trick or treated together. When Daddy and Mama bought the land and built their house. Sam and Sue bought the land across the st. And built their house. Mama had a couple of major surgeries and it was always Sue that looked after us and fed us. When I grew up and moved out on my own I called Sue every other day and would ask her how to make this or that and what temp to put it on. I'd call several times in between to tell her what it looked like. When all of my children were born Sue, Jamie and Trisha were always the first to come see us. I have so many memories growing up and Sue and her kids have always been a part of my life. Our lives. It has always just been natural since the 1st day we met. Family. When Keith and Trisha were born they became Jamie and my real life babies to play with. I dont get to see Jamie as much as I would like now. But she is, has been my 1st. Best friend for life. And Sue more like a second Mama than Aunt. The last time I saw Sue in the nursing home we were sitting on her bed and she just kept smiling and pointing to me saying "you're one of mine". I said "yes I am".

“ Aunt Sue lived to go home someday, what a day when she walked through Heaven's Gate With her parents, her In- laws and Beloved Husband and Her precious Daughter was there to meet her. But most of all She walked up to JESUS and held out her hand and said "Hello I'm Sue Ginn it took me awhile , but now I'm here." She loved me as one of her family, She kept my Daughter Layla while I worked. She taught me so much about forgiveness, love and compassion, always loving and giving, wonderful neighbor and friend. Her Children & Family was her life. Today we lost a a Awesome Lady , Heaven Gained an Angel.
