“ A little over a year he has been gone and I still can't really believe it. Maybe because hes ALWAYS with me, every day in spirit. Little things bring up memories and ppl probably think I'm crazy cuz ill be at walmart or grocery store all by myself and this huge smile pops up..other ppl think I'm nuts but my daddy is ssmiling with me (or making other ppl think I'm crazy just for fun) he was quiet but I think our sense of humor was a lot alike..I was just louder than him but we had lots if good time and memories ..I love u Daddy

“ I just want let everyone that knew him what an AWESOME DADDY he was.. I have always said this, not just since he's in heaven now. I've always been proud to say this is my DADDY. He was a man of his word, didn't like drama, always worked (sometimes 2 or 3 jobs, sick or not). Never drank or done drugs. Had all the patience in the world for all of us. (I dont know how sometimes lol). I wanted to thank u for teaching me to always check my oil in my car, and letting me help build a deck on the house and using that little hammer smashing my finger and u were putting in 16s with 2 swings??. Then u handed me that big Eastwing and it was on after that. (U got a laugh out of that). Im so glad to say I have those prescious memories and many more with u, ill never forget them. I want to thank him for teaching me that being brutally honest is better than telling a lie (even if it sometimes hurts ppls feelings). He was a man of few words, but those words were very important to me and i wish I could his voice 1 more time. I do know my Daddy is with me EVERYDAY and he loved me and is proud of me. I LOVE YOU DADDY.

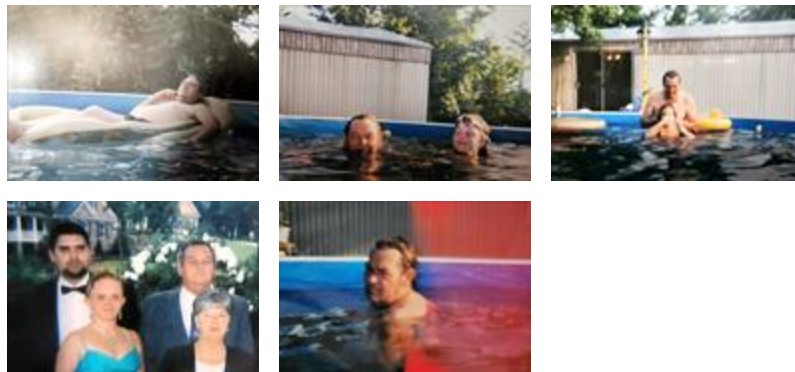

YOUR DAUGHTER,
Rhonda Jackson
